

911 Community Service Awards Banquet

Senior Constable John Atkinson Memorial Award Nomination Form

Prelude: The Windsor Parade Corporation producers of the 911 Community Services award, has embarked upon a consultative process with Shelley Atkinson, wife of the late Senior Constable John Atkinson to determine the unique and enduring qualities that John brought to his job on a daily basis. These qualities form the basis for this award, and will leave a legacy for John and his family with all of the EMS services. This award is open to all members of the EMS services, and is not dependant upon outside community service commitments. Deadline for applications is October 27, 2008

Criteria for the Award:

For Senior Constable John Atkinson, his job was his calling. He served everyday with commitment, dedication, pride, and passion. The magnitude of the call was never a determinant to the level of service he exuded in his response. From minor incidents to terrorists threats John gave 110% every time, in every way. It is these qualities of passion, determination, and pride for the job, and dedication that will be the hallmark of this award recipient.
